$150,000 Spent For Novels

THE ST. LOUIS SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH has purchased the latest work of the World's Great Masters of Fiction—twelve novels by twelve men and women who have earned by successive hits the right to lead the army of romance writers of today—Robert Barr, Mrs. Burton Harrison, E. F. Benson, Mary E. Wilkins-Freeman, Eden Philpotts, Anna Katherine Green, Ian Maclaren, John Oliver Hobbes, Max Pemberton, Amelia E. Barr, C. J. Cutcliffe Hyne and Gertrude Atherton—six American women and six English men.

These novels will be printed in the St. Louis Sunday Post-Dispatch before their publication in book form. Each novel costs the publisher as much as a splendidly stocked farm or a city mansion, yet each one will be given free to all readers of this incomparable newspaper, in special supplements. Each supplement will contain one-fourth of a complete, unabridged novel.

The first novel of the series is by Robert Barr. It concerns a poor American girl, who suddenly falls heir to FIFTEEN MILLION DOLLARS, a mysterious rock island, a British naval officer's folly, a prince who refuses to be a prince, a mystery you cannot solve till the last chapter, and an international war. It contains the sweetest love story you ever read. It is entitled

The Bankruptcy Law.

The administration of the bankrupt laws are fully as heart breaking and costly to everybody concerned as the receivership laws, and have the same ends in view—the enrichment of the lawyers. After the lawyers, their clerks, their stenographers, their collectors, their satellites and hangers-on (each of whom comes in for fat fees) get through with a bankrupt's estate what is left is not worth scraping up.

What I say may be illustrated by my own experience, which as it concerned a small affair, I consider most fortunate, for had the bankrupt failed owing the Censor much money, the principal, and the coterie of able young lawyers who act as collectors, stenographers, clerks and what-nots, all "earning" fees, might have put the paper itself into the bankrupt mill. The Loader Hat Co. was the bankrupt involved. When the firm failed, it owed the Censor $10 on an advertising contract. When this contract was made, it was understood to be "in kind," or that the Censor would purchase goods of the Loader Hat Co. to the extent of the contract. When the firm failed, one hat had been purchased for $3.50, thus reducing the balance due this paper to $6.50. When the firm failed the Censor was duly notified to come forward and prove its claim. A little investigation showed that I would have to appear and appear once and again, and file affidavits and then affidavits that I had made affidavits and sur-rebuttal, and in fact, swear myself "black in the face." Every time I swore, I would have to hand over a fee as a matter of course, to the principal or to some of his numerous satellites, apparently retained for the sole purpose of raking in fees. After I had done all this I would be directed to appear before some other party (a lawyer of course), where the usual dilatory motions would be continued. I sat down and figured out that under favorable circumstances the Censor's percentage of the Loader estate would be about $1.30—that is, if the lawyers found there was anything left, for of course they were collecting fees from that end of the game, too. As the fees that had already been demanded, would foot up not a cent less than $3, I determined then and there that I did not need $1.30 so badly as to spend $3 to get it. The matter was therefore dropped and by me forgotten. But I was not to escape so easily. The others hadn't forgotten, and the other day they sent around one of the young lawyer collectors with a bill for $3.50 against the Censor for goods purchased of the Loader Hat Co. I refused to pay. The collector came again. In vain I protested that the shoe was on the other foot, that instead of me owing the hat company it owed me $6.50. He said my claim had not been proved, that I had failed to put up $3 or $4 to collect $1.30. Legal authority was consulted and I was told I would have to pay. I did pay, but I never have parted with any money with the regret that I saw that go, for I knew the creditors would get but a small percentage of it. The balance would go to the lawyers.

The case amounts to this. I was mulct in the sum of $3.50, not because I owed that sum to the Loader Hat Co., but because the Loader Hat Co. owed me that sum and $3 besides; I shudder to think of what might have happened to the Censor had the bankrupt firm owed the paper $10,000 instead of $10. The fact is, the bankrupt, like scores of other laws, is a rank injustice. They all constitute abuses that should be corrected, and will be corrected when our people fully awaken to the fact their courts and laws are largely instruments of oppression, injustice and rapine.—St. Louis Censor.

Stubborn Coughs.

A cough that lingers on long after every other symptom of a cold has disappeared should have attention, as it indicates some throat or lung trouble and may result seriously. Mr. Alexander McMillan, of Maple Ridge, Mich., recommends Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for this trouble. He says: "I used this remedy for a stubborn cough with the best results and think there is nothing like it. I cannot speak too highly of it." For sale by Arcadia Valley Drug Co.

Obituary.

Died, Wednesday morning, April 25, 1906, at his home near Bellevue, Lee Moore, aged 53 years, 2 months and four days. He had been in delicate health for some months, and after a short illness of only ten days of pneumonia passed away. He leaves a wife, mother, three children and many friends and relatives to mourn his departure. Father and three children were waiting in the better land to welcome him home. No eulogy can do justice to the beauty of his life. He followed the Golden Rule; kind, loving, cheerful, sympathetic to all. His going from us has left us a sorrow that none on earth can heal. Tender and loving hands cared for him during his last illness, and gently laid the body away on that beautiful spring day. The unusual large concourse of friends that followed the remains to their last resting place in Eldon cemetery, show the love and esteem in which he was held by all who knew him. The passing of such a life leaves a benediction on those who knew it. Its influence for good remains.

Resolutions.

The Bellevue Baptist Church, in conference, April 21, 1906, passed the following resolutions: WHEREAS, Our Heavenly Father has seen fit to call from us our beloved brother, Wm. F. Edmonds. Bro. Edmonds was born in Washington county, Mo., March 17, 1837. Was married to Miss Sarah E. Jones in 1863, to which union nine children were born, seven of whom are living. He was a member of Bellevue Baptist Church fifteen years, having united with this church by letter January 26, 1891; was baptized by Eld. J. F. Rudy some years before. He died April 9, 1906, aged 69 years, 1 month and 22 days.

Resolved, That we reverently submit to the will of Him who doeth all things well. Resolved, That in his death this church loses a faithful and efficient member; his wife a loving companion, his children a kind and affectionate father, and his friends a pleasant and trustworthy associate. Resolved, That we extend our sincere condolence to the bereaved family, and pray that the Lord may be their strength and comfort during the sad hours of this affliction. Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be furnished the family of the deceased as a token of our remembrance and love, and that a copy be sent to the IRON COUNTY REGISTER for publication, and that they be spread upon our minutes.
